TOPIC 5 (CPD00527)

Topic: Why Facilities Management is Strategic?

Speaker: Dr Danny Shiem-Shin THEN
PhD, MSc, BSc(Hons), F.PFM, MBIFM, MCIOB
Associate professor in Facility Management, Department of Building Services, Hong Kong Polytechnic University

Date: 27 May 2008 (Tue)

Abstract: Ultimately, the practice of FM is concerned with the delivery of the enabling workplace environment—the optimum functional space that supports the business processes and human resources. The FM role is to meet the business challenges that confront the organization it is supporting, as an enabler in the first instance. In the long term, a sustainable FM role within organizations must be built upon an aspiration to continuously add value by providing appropriate and innovative ‘facilities solutions’ to business challenges through the skillful manipulation of all business resources—the optimum balance between people, physical assets and technology.

The presentation will cover the following aspects of facilities management:

- Facilities Management as strategic enabler
- Why Facilities Management is a critical component of modern businesses
- Changing Facilities Management Practices
- Prerequisites of Effective Facilities Management
- Role of Facilities Managements in supporting modern businesses

(Relevant Core Competency: Real Estate Portfolio Management)

TOPIC 6 (CPD080625)
