ABOUT
“How QS will succeed in Tomorrow’s world” is the theme of 2015 conference. Continuously learning new knowledge and absorbing others’ experience are essential elements of obtaining success. Given that Hong Kong is the region’s leader of Surveying Industry and becomes capable to provide services with international standards, both local and international experience and wisdom are valuable to Hong Kong to desire further success. To put the theme into practice, HKIS unprecedented inviting AIQS, a national professional organization, jointly organize conference this year to provide local and international latest industry information to surveying experts. Aim of the conference is to explore future opportunities for professional development of quantity surveying. Worldwide surveying industry leaders were invited as speakers to share their precious knowledge and experience to help attendants equipping necessary skills, strengthening competency, and overwhelming challenges to facilitate industry development.
